Tories Capture Council Seats In U.K. Voting

Swing to Right Not Pronounced As 11 of 12 Openings Unchanged

LONDON, May 12 (Friday) (CP).—The Conservatives gained and Labor lost ground early today as results were reported from municipal elections in England and Wales.

With 353 councils reporting of 378 which voted yesterday, The Press Association issued this gains-and-losses table.

	Gains	Losses
Labor	119	203
Conservatives	270	60
Liberals	15	37
Independents	85	159

The Communists, who registered nil in both columns at this compilation, were running at the bottom of the poll in most areas.

The swing to the right, although it was the most pronounced trend of those perceptible from the returns, was not overwhelming. With 6,138 candidates contesting 3,217 seats which fell vacant this year, the Tories had picked up less than half of those that had changed hands, while more than 11 of every 12 seats at stake remained unchanged.

Municipal elections often are taken as an indication of the swing of public opinion in national affairs, but have not always proved a reliable barometer for forecasting the Westminster outlook.

Nevertheless, the results heartened supporters of Conservative leader Winston Churchill and threw some gloom over Prime Minister Attlee's Labor camp in a Parliament which might see another general election before 1951.

The Labor and Conservative parties, almost equally divided in the House of Commons and faced with the likelihood of another general election this year, were both out to make a good showing, although their spokesmen admitted that local issues are apt to outweigh national ones in voting of this type.

Yesterday's provided the main round of local Government elections that have been going on all week.

In the boroughs—centres with more than 30,000 population—a total of 3,217 seats were contested by 6,138 candidates. They included 2,526 Labor, 1,902 Conservative, 261 Liberal, 353 Communist and 1,096 Independent.

Heat Sets New Peak For 1950

Downtown temperature soared to a high of 77 degrees yesterday afternoon as the weatherman set a new 1950 record.

Official reading at the Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Heights, however, was a mere 71 degrees.

And there is more sunny weather predicted for today. Expected high is 68 degrees with light winds.

Yesterday the weatherman predicted 60 degrees but he fell 11 degrees short of the mark.

While Victorians thrive on the current heat wave, residents of the Fraser Valley eye it with some concern.

Melting snow on the mountains in the Interior of British Columbia is daily increasing and the danger of floods mounts steadily.

U.S. Military Spokesman Admits Errors in Funds

WASHINGTON, May 11 (INS).—A House committee today accused the army finance centre at St. Louis of lax security, fraudulent loyalty procedure and mishandling of funds, and a military spokesman admitted "irregularities and mistakes."

Maj.-Gen. Floyd B. Parks, army public relations chief, said a five-month investigation of the centre shows benefit overpayments totalling $160,000,000, with $35,000,000 still missing.

Parks also disclosed that 62 persons considered "security risks" had been discovered among the centre's 4,500 employees, and that Major John H. Mathias, commander of the centre, is under investigation.

The army statement came after a House Civil Service Subcommittee investigating both fraud and Communist infiltration at the finance centre, demanded court-martial of Mathias on a charge of conspiring to place fraudulent documents in loyalty files.

Because of Surmises

P.C. Executive Asserts Confidence in Anscomb

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb has been given a unanimous vote of confidence by the executive of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative Association, according to a Canadian Press dispatch from Vancouver.

This was announced today by the publicity committee of the association in releasing the full text of a resolution calling a Provincial convention next Autumn.

The committee said the full release was made because of "surmises published in connection with the convention."

Some reports said that a new leader might be sought to succeed Mr. Anscomb, Provincial head of the party.

The last Provincial convention was held in 1946, and since then there have been Provincial and Federal elections, leaving the party with a smaller representation in the Legislature and few members in the Federal House.

In explaining reasons for calling the convention, the resolution said:

"It is resolved that a convention be called . . . in order that the broadest representation of the whole Province be assembled to examine all factors that have a bearing on the future of the Progressive Conservative Party of British Columbia."

Four Escape Serious Injury in Truck-Car Accident

—Colonist Photo.

Result of a spectacular truck-car collision at the intersection of Cook and Lang Streets yesterday, is shown above. Police said George A. Stuart, 2815 Wark Street, was driving a truck west on Lang Street when he was in collision with a car proceeding south on Cook, driven by Stanley G. Erickson, 932 Easter Road. Erickson and passengers in the car, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stevenson, 831 Vale Street, were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering shock and bruises. All were released after treatment.

Report Pact Offered To Loggers

PORT ALBERNI, May 11. — A wage settlement has been offered employees of Bloedel, Stewart & Welch, Ltd., it was reported unofficially tonight. Another meeting will be held tomorrow.

Negotiations for a new 1950 contract commenced between the company and the I.W.A. at Port Alberni on April 20, and were later transferred to Vancouver, where they broke down. W. G. McLaughlin, Victoria, was appointed conciliation officer, and discussion was resumed at Port Alberni last Wednesday.

It is understood that demands of the I.W.A. for a union shop clause in the contract led to the stalemate. The company felt that such compulsion would be an infringement of the rights of individuals.

BULLETIN

WINNIPEG, May 11 (CP). — Fire in a downtown Winnipeg shoe store today spread to four other business premises before it was controlled. No estimate of damage was available.

Man Feared Dead Tells of Captivity

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 11 (CP).—Fred Anscomb, 32, feared dead after he mysteriously disappeared 16 days ago, came to police in this district today with a story of robbery and kidnapping.

He said two men who posed as tractor salesmen lured him into an automobile, chloroformed him and robbed him of $726. They held him captive in a Summer cottage and finally released him at Callander—more than 150 miles from his home near Shelburne, 70 miles northwest of Toronto.

Anscomb was described, following his disappearance, as a man without an enemy, "a God-fearing man who neither drinks, smokes nor swears" and whose strongest oath was "by hedges."

The mild-mannered farmer, who fought with a tank regiment in Holland and Italy during the war, was red-eyed, haggard and unnerved when he stumbled into Callander with his mystery-thriller-type story.

He said he was not harmed by the men who kept him prisoner in a small room in a cabin or Summer cottage which he believes was near Huntsville in the Muskoka district, about midway between Shelburne and North Bay.

TWO MEALS PER DAY

"They gave me two meals a day—corn flakes and canned milk in the morning and boiled potatoes with bacon or sausages at night. There was only Summer bedding; I had to sleep with my clothes on to keep warm. I had to use a pillow slip for a towel."

Howe Places Faith in Dikes

VANCOUVER, May 11 (CP).—Minister C. D. Howe tonight "staked his reputation" to say he did not believe any flooding disaster is possible in the Fraser Valley this year "with the kind of dike construction you have . . ."

Lie Arrives For Talks In Moscow

MOSCOW, May 11 (AP).—Trygve Lie, United Nations Secretary-General, came to Moscow tonight on a mission he has explained as an attempt to ease East-West tension and preserve the United Nations.

The Russians sent a deputy foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, to the airport to meet him. A cold rain was falling.

"I regret this bad weather," Gromyko said, smiling, as he shook hands with the Secretary-General.

FLEW FROM PRAGUE

Lie and a Russian assistant secretary-general, Konstantin Zinchenko, flew to Moscow in a Soviet plane from Prague. Lie previously had gone to the other Big Four capitals—Washington, London and Paris—in his quest for a means to untangle snarled affairs of the United Nations.

Russia's boycotting of the United Nations and its agencies is one of the factors. The Russians insist the United Nations should oust Nationalist Chinese and seat Communist Chinese delegates. The Nationalists are still recognized.

He said he will not have anything to announce for two or three days.

Bridge Repairs In Flood Battle Given Priority

Only One Main Bridge Fully Open As Thousands of Homeless Flee

WINNIPEG, May 11 (CP). — The fight to bolster bridges had No. 1 priority in punch-drunk Winnipeg and nearby St. Boniface tonight as thousands of destitute and homeless fled the unchecked spread of Red River water.

Only one of 11 main bridges joining the two cities and their suburbs still was fully open. Four were open only to essential traffic.

Even trucks rushing men and supplies to the leaky, tottering dikes were forced to travel roundabout routes. The Greater Winnipeg area was in effect split into unconnected segments.

Refugees crowded into still-dry suburbs were finding it difficult, sometimes impossible, to reach trains and buses waiting to carry them outside the Red River Valley and the risk of further flooding.

At least one-eighth of the metropolitan area of about 70 square miles was already under water; yet the flood-crazy Red and its tributary Seine and Assiniboine continued their seemingly unending rise.

(See Page 2 for detailed flood areas.)

Already at the highest level since 1932, they climbed to 29 feet eight inches by 11 p.m., C.D.T.—a rise of eight inches in less than 30 hours. Flood-control headquarters at that time reported no major developments. The battle on all fronts continued unabated.

Estimating the part of Greater Winnipeg's 350,000 population forced from their suburban homes was almost hopeless. The army, its Prairie commander—Brig. R. E. A. Morton—in over-all command of all Red River flood relief, said it would not even guess.

The Winnipeg Tribune estimated 40,000, including more than 5,000 from ten submerged and deserted towns between here and the international border where the Red comes in from North Dakota.

AID ROARS IN

While refugees poured out, the R.C.A.F. roared in from points east, west and south with flood equipment. Almost 5,000,000 sandbags and tons of other vital supplies streamed to Winnipeg in a miniature Berlin air lift.

Almost all of far-south St. Vital Municipality was under water, from the north-running Seine to the Red River. Flood-control headquarters reported all its almost 20,000 population had been evacuated.

The business areas of Winnipeg and St. Boniface were mostly free of water, except for basement flooding.

HUGE LAKE

Southern Manitoba was one huge lake. Provincial Government men said 540 square miles are flooded. The usually-narrow Red had spread to a width of 20 miles in many places.

A new "river" was creeping 10 or 12 miles northwestward from this flood-caused lake. Army engineers said it might advance farther but was not a further threat to Greater Winnipeg.

Brig. Morton yesterday urged that women and children—200,000 of them in the Greater Winnipeg area—move if they could outside the Red River area.

The exodus began last night; gained momentum rapidly today as railway, bus, truck and taxi companies geared operations to meet the demand for space.

Pictures Destruction As Worse Than War

TORONTO, May 11 (CP). — The flood destruction in Winnipeg and other Manitoba centres is as terrible as that caused by war, refugees said today on their arrival here by plane and train. Some 300 arrived, many having lost all their possessions.

"It is unbelievable," said Mrs. R. B. McLeod of Bassett Place in Western Winnipeg. "Our home was crumbling into the ground when we last saw it. We left everything behind, but we are lucky we have relatives in Toronto who will look after us for the time being. It is as bad or worse than war."

Mrs. John Rondos of the St. John's district, Winnipeg, said water was four feet deep in her basement when she fled with her infant son.

"To me it seemed as though the end of the world was coming—it was that terrible. Anyone not on the scene can't picture the horror and desolation."

HOMES RUINED

Mrs. D. Matthewson said that in the Wildwood subdivision 300 new homes are under water. She arrived here with her two children, Dona, 4, and Keith, 7. Even if the flood subsided immediately, the homes will be ruined.

"We saw families traveling along the streets in boats, all kinds of boats. Families are scattered everywhere now and I don't know how it is all going to end. The river has the houses now."

Mrs. Paul Prince and Mrs. John Prince, both of St. Boniface and both carrying babies, described the scene they left behind.

"When we left the water was creeping out of the cellars like a criminal, and outside the snow and rain kept falling."

The Weather

Victoria City—Clear, little cooler. Winds southwest 15 m.p.h.

High Today—68.

Sunshine Yesterday—14 hours, six minutes.

Severing of Communications Presents Great Danger

Possibility that communications may be severed between many Winnipeg suburbs and the city itself is one of the dangers facing the flood area. This map shows many bridges closed, others endangered.

A continuous shuttle service is being maintained between the flooded Manitoba cities of Winnipeg and St. Boniface. In this picture, large tractors are shown pulling convoys of trucks between Main Street bridge and Norwood bridge, loaded with flood workers and supplies.

Perseverance Pays Off For Pakistan Statesman

Hon. Liaquat Ali Khan, who will visit Ottawa for three days beginning May 30, became Prime Minister of Pakistan, the world's fifth most populous country, on August 15, 1947. He was faced then, at 52, with the tremendous task of building a nation literally from scratch.

In the opinion of qualified observers, he has succeeded in that task. Pakistan's respected international status today, they agree, is due largely to the Prime Minister's personal statesmanship, unbounded enthusiasm, tireless energy and dogged perseverance.

ORDER OUT OF CHAOS

Often referred to as Pakistan's "man of destiny," Liaquat Ali has forged order out of chaos in less than three years. His policies have given the new nation, the dominant Moslem state in the world, what is generally regarded as the soundest economy of any Asiatic country.

As well, he has assured Pakistan's some 77,000,000 inhabitants they can look forward to a future with guaranteed democratic liberties. He has promised them that they and their children will be free to follow their own way of life without hindrance.

POPULARITY GROWING

Liaquat Ali, for six months after independence, toured the Punjab when mass migration of Moslems from India and Hindus from Pakistan was at its height. He still follows this policy of maintaining close personal contact with the people, resulting in his ever-growing popularity among Moslems of all nations and among the residents of border territories of Pakistan—the Pathans of the Northwest Frontier, the Sindhi farmers and the natives of the small principalities of the Himalayas.

By this constant personal contact, the Prime Minister feels that he is always aware of public opinion and the country's immediate needs. He encourages his ministers to follow his example.

Like all educated Asiatics, Liaquat Ali speaks fluent English. He is part Westerner, part Oriental. However, in him there is none of the East-West conflict which seemed to characterize Jinnah and Nehru.

He has often said that it was his firm resolve to mingle in Pakistan the best of East and West. "The East has no tradition of democracy. It is our (Pakistan's) duty to build one up."

Liaquat Ali, descendant of a wealthy and titled family tracing its heritage back to King Nausherwan the Just of Iran, is pleased to say that he came to Karachi as a refugee, just like more than 6,000,000 members of the new nation. When he fled India's United Provinces he left behind extensive real-estate holdings. Recently he expressed amusement that he had been sent notes from India's internal revenue department reminding him to pay taxes on the properties.

Cafe Worker Proves Obliging

PHILADELPHIA, May 11 (AP)—Edward Vershay, 36-year-old restaurant counterman, gave a customer what he asked for today.

The customer shoved one hand deep into his pocket and ordered sternly:

"Okay, give it to me."

At the moment Vershay was draining hot coffee from an urn into a three-gallon container. He told police he decided to do what he was told, and let the customer have it—right in the face.

The hold-up man ran from the restaurant screaming and with coffee streaming down the front of his clothes.

Company Pays Record Price For Oil Rights

EDMONTON, May 11 (CP).—The Crown Trust Company today paid the Alberta Government $1,611,711 for oil rights on a single quarter section of land in the Redwater oilfield, shattering all previous price records on Government reserves.

The 160-acre plot is on the southeast fringe of the field adjoining a quarter recently proven by the Royalite-Triad team.

The sale was one of 13 which netted the Government $6,607,274. They covered about 2,000 acres in the Redwater field, 45 miles northeast of Edmonton, and in the new Excelsior field, 12 miles north of Edmonton.

Bids were accepted up to close of business at 6:30 C.S.T., and results were announced by Mines and Minerals Minister N. E. Tanner.

The record bid was paid for land known as Parcel 87. Crown Trust also got the adjoining Parcel 86 for $1,587,288.

Both bids topped the previous high of $1,519,101 paid in February by Royalite and associates for rights on the adjoining quarter section.

Smallest parcel on the block, No. 89, a 40-acre piece in the same area, went to Pacific Petroleum Ltd., for $283,009.

C. D. Howe Tells U.B.C. Graduates Of Wide Frontiers in Engineering

VANCOUVER, May 11 (CP).—The University of British Columbia's mushrooming campus was black with robes today as one of the largest graduating classes in the university's history began the two-day ceremonies.

Today's graduates—968 applied science students of a total of 1,800 in all faculties—heard Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, Trade Minister, deliver a congregation address with an accent on engineering.

"Opportunities for young engineers," Mr. Howe said, "and for graduates generally, are as good, or better than they were 40 years ago."

"I do think that Canadian industry, and the Canadian economy, will develop at a rate not less remarkable during the next quarter century than during the previous quarter century."

HONORARY DEGREES

Mr. Howe was presented with an honorary degree along with Dr. F. E. Terman, dean of the school of engineering at Stanford University; H. R. MacMillan, British Columbia industrialist; R. W. Diamond, president of Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, and Dr. J. H. Finlayson, retiring dean of applied science, U.B.C.

Tomorrow, M. E. Nichols, journalist and one of the founders of The Canadian Press, will be presented with an honorary degree as will Marion Lindeburgh, director of the McGill School of Nursing.

Mr. Howe's hour-long address was delivered before more than 2,500 graduates, relatives and friends who jammed the university's bunting-covered armory.

Mr. Howe said, "I am old-fashioned enough to believe that personal ambition, initiative, industry, faith, and the willingness to take a chance are still better avenues to personal and national success than the rigid adherence to security considerations and social and economic planning."

He emphasized that the "hinterland of science" still was largely unexplored and that new discoveries simply illustrated the "endless frontier" of science.

"You are among those upon whom Canada will depend to see to it that Canadian economy will continue to expand. This university has given you the tools and Canada has the materials. It is up to you to play your part in building a greater and greater Canada."

Following his address, Mr. Howe opened the new $963,000 applied science building, "a monument to Dean Finlayson, the retiring head of applied science."

Members will hold a picnic on Cowichan River near Duncan May 24.

East Kildonan Area Newest Flood Scene

WINNIPEG, May 11 (CP).—Flood waters made their newest inroads today into a section of East Kildonan on the east bank of the Red River and along both banks of the Assiniboine.

Along the Red:

Fort Garry—Little new flooding. Water covers the Wildwood area and extends westward to Lyon Street in the south and Riverside Drive in the north. Some water has crept around the west side of the Lord Selkirk Highway.

St. Vital—The triangular section made by St. Mary's Road on the west and St. Annes Road on the east is about the only dry place in the municipality. Another smaller triangle-shaped piece, sitting on northeast side of the first section, also relatively clear of water as yet. It runs about nine blocks in depth and includes parts of such avenues as Oakleigh, Imperial, Stanmills and Clonard.

CITY FLANKED

St. Boniface—Water has flanked the city on the east, coursing from the Seine River. So far it extends back only a few blocks each side of the Seine. It means that St. Boniface is almost completely encircled by flood water, held out by a five-mile system of dikes.

East and North Kildonan—Major change is in the north end of the East Kildonan area where a dike broke last night. The effect was to flood a section that is roughly the shape of a hunched rabbit in profile. Two long "ears" stick out towards the old railway tracks. The "nose" is along McLeod Avenue. The "body" takes in parts of avenues running north from Helmsdale up to Eldorado.

West Kildonan—Little change except that flooding has extended over Kildonan Park, skirting the golf course. Otherwise the flooded area runs from around Mortimer in the south to Forrest in the north.

TRAFFIC AFFECTED

Winnipeg—A small piece of land near Norwood bridge is filled in with water. Size of the flooded area is not large but its importance is great since it involves a vital traffic link between Winnipeg and St. Boniface. Water extends several blocks deep between the Louise and Redwood bridges.

Along the Assiniboine:

Water crept along the Truro-Sackville-Amherst Street area, running north of Portage, and in the Douglas Park and Wallace Road areas to the south. Other districts affected by flooding are Assiniboine Drive, for a half-dozen blocks around Fort Osborne barracks; the Wellington Avenue and Wellington Crescent section for almost their full length; parts of Wolesley and Palmerston; the river side of Roslyn Road, and the East and West Gate sections.

Premier Smallwood Arrives For Good-Will Visit Tonight

Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland is scheduled to reach Patricia Bay airport at 7 p.m. today aboard a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane, it was reported yesterday by officials of the airline. With him will be Premier Byron Johnson, who joined the Newfoundland leader on the Mainland.

Now on a cross-Canada tour, Premier Smallwood is extending personal invitations to other premiers of the nation to attend forthcoming Newfoundland Day celebrations at St. John's.

In Medicine Hat yesterday, Premier Smallwood was presented with a large china plate—a product of that city—on which was printed: "The presentation of the Smallwood Flying Plate entitles Premier and Mrs. Smallwood to a full-course dinner in any dining room in Canada . . . send the bill to the City of Medicine Hat."

PARK FLOWERS

During the week of May 14 to 20 the colorful display of wallflowers and polyanthus in Beacon Hill Park will remain the centre of attraction, according to Parks Administrator W. H. Warren.

"But the flowering cherries and bedding displays such as pansies, beds of mixed wallflowers and forget-me-nots are coming into their own," he added.

"The wild flowers on the hill are probably better than ever before, the yellow buttercups giving way to the blue Camas," said Mr. Warren. "This display is particularly effective on the northeast side of the hill."

Said Lloyd F. Detwiller yesterday: "We're going right through the list and every delinquent will mean a prosecution."

He intimated a number of persons will be summonsed within a week.

ROTARIANS INVITED

Members of the Victoria Rotary Club have been invited to participate in a cruise of the H.M.C.S. Sault Ste. Marie on June 17.

At yesterday's luncheon meeting of the club, when it was asked how many members would want to go on the trip, almost every hand was raised.

The Sault Ste. Marie, floating headquarters and training ship of Victoria's reserve naval division H.M.C.S. Malahat, will leave Esquimalt 1:30 p.m. and return at 5.

Police Return Stolen Goods

More than $500 in varied loot was returned to its owners yesterday by Juvenile Officer Arthur Rudge in connection with the recently solved outbreak of juvenile burglaries.

The figure represents a high percentage of goods stolen from four coffee shops, an office and boom-house entered during April and early May.

Mostly in cigarettes and other smokers' supplies, the booty included two pairs of loggers' boots, a radio, a watch, and two pens.

C. F. Moriarty, Canadian Press Correspondent, Retiring This Week After 40 Years in Victoria

By FRED McNEIL

A beloved Irishman this week leaves the stage where he watched and recorded the passage of men and affairs for 40 years.

He is Cornelius Francis Moriarty, who is retiring as Canadian Press correspondent in Victoria.

To his thousands of friends he is known simply as "Mory" or, affectionately, as "that old Irishman," for under such rough words newspapermen who worked with him gave him a place in their hearts.

BORN IN MAINE

Mory left his native Maine at 14 to see what made the world tick. He became a telegrapher with itchy feet. He gained a reputation for being fast and accurate with Morse code and wherever he went he landed a job. He worked in a fabulous number of whistle stops, big cities and rip-snorting frontier towns throughout the United States and Canada.

Mory came to Victoria as a press telegrapher, joined The Canadian Press on its formation in 1917, and rapidly became an institution in this city. He covered football, baseball, murders, trials, politics and disasters, and knew the inside story of a thousand public squabbles.

OUTLANDISH RUMORS

Mory is short, stocky and there is a roguish gleam in his eye that tells his love of laughter. From waking until sleeping he has a pipe or a cigar clenched in his teeth. He can concoct outlandish rumors and chuckles for days as he sees them develop. When young reporters occasionally hold a party, Mory will sit quietly yarning for hours, or just watching the youngsters enjoy themselves.

For years he lived at the Pacific Club, later at the Union Club, but his real home was in the editorial rooms of The Times and The Colonist and the press gallery at the Legislative Buildings where he was secretary and treasurer for 20 years. His job has been his life and among the people he worked with always found someone to help.

C. F. MORIARTY

FRIEND AND CONFIDENT

In his newspaper career here, he became the friend and confidant of everyone he knew, from office boys and gamblers to premiers, Cabinet ministers and chief justices.

His working day was all his waking hours and often he sat up all night playing poker, smoking his pipe and chuckling as he outbluffed a Cabinet minister or a judge.

Over the years he handled every big story to come out of Victoria. His colleagues were constantly amazed at his endless good humor. On big stories or in the gnawing grind of Legislative sessions when the tempers of men half his age snapped under the tension of 14 and 16-hour days, Mory always had a story or practical joke to restore good feeling and keep men friends.

One Christmas Eve his only son was shot down over Germany. After that, more than ever, Mory became a second father to the young men around him, giving encouragement and help from his own vast experience. As the young men came back from the war, he sought them out. He seemed to understand their problems instinctively and he was able to help them fit in again.

Last night Mory was a guest of honor at a Press Gallery dinner where former Premier John Hart presented him with mementos. The premier is an honorary member of the Press Gallery. On Sunday the editorial staffs of both daily papers will meet to bid him a fond farewell.

Library Board Accepts Bid On New Stacks

Victoria Public Library Board has accepted the tender of Snead & Co. for supplying and installing steel stacks in the new addition to the library building.

The tender for manufacturing is $37,109 and for installation $4,364. Total is $41,573.

Other tenders received:

Remington Rand, $49,198.50, installed for $59,495 plus sales tax;

Northwestern Supply Co. (Sankey-Sheldon), $37,500, plus $4,635 for installation, making a total of $42,135, plus $1,500 if a superintendent of installation was necessary;

Pacific Sheet Metal Works, $25,-310.74, installation charge $14,089, making a total of $39,399.74.

Builders Sign New Contracts With Two Unions Containing Pay Revisions, No-Stoppage Clauses

Signing of two-year agreements "on substantially the same grounds" with Local 1093 of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union, and Local 885, General Teamsters' Union, both A.F.L.-T.L.C., was announced yesterday by the Victoria Building Industries Exchange.

The agreement signed with the laborers contains a union shop clause whereby workers are obliged to become union members after 30 days employment, according to Bill James, international representative for the laborers.

Member contractors had agreed to the union shop clause, he said. This was confirmed by Exchange spokesman George Wheaton.

Laborers' pay rates remain unchanged except in higher categories.

BASIC BAY

Basic pay for laborers will be $1.15 an hour. Laborers now receive $1.15 an hour, consisting of a basic rate of $1.10 an hour plus a five-cent cost of living bonus, no longer in effect under the new agreement.

Jackhammermen and breakermen will receive $1.35 an hour, an increase of ten cents an hour, and cement finishers, $1.55 an hour, an increase of five cents an hour.

The Teamsters' agreement provides for wages of $1.15 an hour for truck drivers employed by contractors.

In addition, the agreement with the laborers contains a clause aimed specifically at restraining work stoppages as evidenced early in the recent Evans, Coleman & Johnson dispute.

NO STOPPAGES

The clause reads: "No work stoppage shall take place and no member of this union shall take part in, administer or assent to any work stoppage by reason of picket action unless:

1. The members of this union or other employees of the same employer have a dispute with their employer relative to their own wages and working conditions.

2. The material being used on the job is obtained from a firm whose employees are on strike.

During the building supply strike, some laborers respected picket lines about construction jobs which had been established, not on the grounds that the "hot" material there was still coming from the struck firm, but on the grounds that prior to the strike, the material had been and was normally supplied by the firm.

Under the new clause, such picket lines would presumably not be respected.

ASSURES STABILITY

"If the provisions had been in effect previously, they would have prevented the recent widespread disruption in the construction industry in Victoria," Exchange president Walter Luney said in a statement issued yesterday.

"We think that in itself is a very worthwhile accomplishment and one in which the Exchange and the unions concerned can take justifiable pride.

"We think there is great merit in the two-year contract as it provides an assurance of stability in construction costs so far as the public is concerned."

To Seek Special Consideration

Club for Tall Victorians May Be Organized Soon

Victoria's human skyscrapers will soon have a chance to mingle with their own kind.

A club for tall people, patterned after the international Tip Toppers' Clubs, may be formed here.

Guiding spirit behind the organization is six-foot-three-and-a half-inch Guy Roxby, a member of Tip Toppers' Clubs in Ontario and in Vancouver.

He has scheduled a meeting of prospective members for 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Y.M.C.A. Minimum heights for members probably will be five feet, ten inches for women, and six feet, one inch for men.

Purpose of the club, apart from social activities, will be to press for special consideration for tall people by clothing manufacturers and others.

One American club recently talked the local transportation system into providing special seats with extra leg-room on all buses.

Unit Sponsors Talent Group

PORT ALBERNI, May 11. — Alberni Valley Junior Talent Society will go to Campbell River on May 21 to present a concert in the new school auditorium, which has a seating capacity of 1,000 persons. The trip will be made by bus and private automobiles.

Members of the concert party will be given a luncheon at noon by the ladies' auxiliary to the Campbell River Branch of the Canadian Legion, which unit is sponsoring the society for the concert. Following the performance, which will commence at 2:30 p.m., the auxiliary will serve a full-course dinner for 75 persons prior to the society's return to Port Alberni.

PICKERUPTER

Laboratory tests have shown there is a 7.2 per cent increase in resistance to fatigue immediately following drinking a cup of tea.

Change Church Hours

SOOKE, May 11.—Evening prayer service at Holy Trinity Church will be held at 7 p.m. during the Summer. The new hour will be observed next Sunday.

Blood Donors Give 450 Pints

Nearly 450 pints of blood were donated to the Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service by Island residents in the past three days, it was announced yesterday.

Victorians contributed 289 pints yesterday, 185 Wednesday. Among yesterday's donors were 86 soldiers from Work Point Barracks. Donors at Sooke gave 61 pints Tuesday.

The Red Cross Mobile Clinic is stockpiling blood against any possible emergency arising out of the Winnipeg flood. A concerted drive for more donations is being made by units throughout Canada.

Manitoba Flood Is National Emergency

WITH 40,000 people temporarily homeless, its main bridges threatened and one-eighth of its total area under water, Winnipeg was at the centre of a national emergency last night. Several small towns south of there have been almost completely inundated, and the Red River with its tributaries was still reported on the rampage. Whether the situation improves or grows worse is something that only time will show. Meanwhile the armed services, the Canadian Red Cross and other agencies have been mobilized in the area and are doing a good job. The offer of the British Columbia Government to help in the situation was made in good faith, but until the true extent of the damage is known there is little enough that can be done beyond what is already in hand.

With warm weather coming now to the Pacific Coast, British Columbia's own situation is none too secure. Heavy precipitation in the mountains and an unusual cold Winter have prepared most of the ingredients of flood conditions on our main river systems, if the temperature pattern from now until mid-June parallels that of the late Spring of 1948. That year brought disastrous floods in the Fraser River Valley, although millions have been spent on the dikes since then in a program to strengthen them and contain the river within its banks.

Such sudden emergencies as the present Manitoba flood and British Columbia's own experience of two years ago give point to the suggestion that Canada's river systems should be surveyed from a long-range standpoint to see if something cannot be done to give them overflow basins at points that will do the least damage to settlement on their banks. It was the gradual withdrawal of natural swamps and the too strict confining of the Fraser that sent that river over its banks in 1948. The same thing may apply to the Red River system.

Mr. Trygve Lie's Visit to Moscow

THE behaviour of Communist newspapermen in Soviet satellite countries is not necessarily a criterion of the reaction of Moscow to the scheduled visit of Mr. Trygve Lie to the Russian capital, but these individuals are usually well posted as to the line they are to follow in international affairs. They have to be since any deviation from the prescribed attitude is apt to suffer sharp rebuke. That they chose to laugh at the United Nations secretary-general when he stopped off at Prague, therefore, could presage the kind of reception that awaits him in Moscow.

The Prague press found amusing Mr. Lie's assertion that the United Nations secretariat is above party politics. If their smiles were of disbelief it could mean they have small faith in the sincerity of his forthcoming appeal to Stalin, if he manages to see him, or his chief deputy Molotov. Some on this side of the Iron Curtain have doubted the merit of Mr. Lie's approach to Moscow, not of his sincerity but of the wisdom of by-passing the usual channels of diplomatic arrangement. The United Nations Charter gives its secretary-general power to take any steps he may think would aid the United Nations to reach international accord, and it is under this authority that he now attempts to do what orthodox procedure has failed to achieve.

His success or otherwise will become apparent after he arrives at the fount of Russian power, the Kremlin itself. One would be an optimist without much precedent to guide him were he to be buoyed with hope as to the outcome of Mr. Lie's talks. It is on the thesis that anything is worth a try that the secretary-general's attempt to intervene in the cold war has been given a tentative blessing on this side of the world. The derision of the Prague press, however, may be significant. It certainly suggests that the word has been passed along from Moscow that Mr. Lie is not to be received with open arms on his way to see the Russian leaders.

Something More Than Opinion Is Needed

CIRCUMSTANCES in which a charge of drunken driving was dismissed by a police magistrate in Victoria this week provide another illustration of the need in all such cases of evidence more conclusive than mere opinion based on rule-of-thumb tests. In this instance two constables who stopped a driver on the street testified in court that he was intoxicated. Two other constables, a desk sergeant, and a police doctor who examined the man some time later at the police station, were of the opinion that he was not. The magistrate very properly dismissed the charge.

The outcome of this case indicates that the police here are not out to "railroad" any driver who has taken a drink or two, and in that respect is an encouraging example of fairness in police evidence. Just the same, all such cases founded on nothing more than individual opinions undoubtedly add to the difficulties of the courts.

If in borderline cases involving the question of intoxication provision were made for laboratory as well as clinical examinations, the element of doubt should be eliminated one way or the other. The tests now applied, limited to observation of the behaviour and reactions of a suspected person, are of value; but they are not enough in themselves.

Letters and Excerpts

Letters to the editor on any topic of genuine interest are welcome if they are brief, accurate and fair. No letter will be inserted, in whole or in part, except over the proper signature and address of the writer. Unsolicited correspondence cannot be returned.

THOSE GUARD RAILS

Sir,—Your editorial concerning highway guard rails was indeed timely though challenging in some of its statements. As one who has ridden in a car striking the safety rail, under test, allow me to correct the record.

Cars do not rebound from the rail. The rail takes hold of the tire and uses it as a gentle pneumatic brake to slow the car down and turn it back onto the road in control. Recent test reports prove this.

The cautious driver or the timid one hugs the centre of the road on bad mountain curves. He is the one who needs the psychological prop of such a device.

As the writer is old enough to remember the red flag preceding the road roller and the cute red triangle on the rear fenders of some cars, let us prayer that no fool driver carries four other innocent people off the Mahalat into the Saanich Arm.

W. S. HARRISON.

Sidney, B.C.

ANOTHER VIEW

Sir,—After all there are two sides to the question raised in your editorial in the issue of Tuesday, May 9,on the issue of Government control of building along highways presently to be built in British Columbia. The point at issue is whether private enterprise shall be subject to central control which already almost amounts to Communist centralization. As you point out, the building of hails, filling stations, schools, hot dog stands and tourist cabins certainly does impede the view of tourists, but on the other hand it is becoming all too common for speeding tourists to rush past the most delightful scenery at 60 to 80 miles per hour when they are unable to appreciate nature any way. . . .

For the Government to suddenly clamp down now and implement this suggestion would, I fear, have the appearance of favoring those who have already built the places mentioned, while denying that right to others desiring the same privilege.

The question is not one to be decided by any dogmatic decision, and since as you say the highways are to be built for the enjoyment of the people of British Columbia, then it is obviously the duty and privilege of those people to decide which class shall have that enjoyment, the people largely tourists who will drive the cars or the people largely homemakers here who will tend the gas stations, sell the hot dogs, raise the children who will go to the schools, and in general keep the homes fires burning, and incidentally pay for the new highways.

L. J. PEPPER.

RUNNING DOGS

Sir,—May I make a statement in connection with "Be Kind to Animals"? If children, through their teachers, be told it is not kind to take them running behind their bicycles, that human lives have been lost through a car driver swerving to avoid a dog, and some person has suddenly appeared.

Quite often one sees a faithful dog toiling to keep up with its young master. Now the fine weather seems to be getting settled, it is kinder to leave "Pal" at home, and he will be there to welcome them when they return.

In your time,—
Now long past your prime?"
"O, I have looked at, often looked at
Sweet, sublime,
Sore things, shudderful, night and noon
In my time."

"What have you mused on, Moon,
In your day,
So aloof, so far away?"
"O, I have mused on, often mused on
Growth, decay,
Nations alive, dead, mad, aswoon,
In my day!"

"Have you wondered, Moon,
On your rounds,
Self-wrapt, beyond Earth's bounds?"
"Yea, I have wondered, often wondered
At the sounds
Reaching me of the human tune
On my rounds." . . .

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT seems but yesterday William S. Hart drew his six-shooter and put the villain to flight, with never a smile to crack his leathern visage as he clasped the heroine to his manly bosom. And now his will has been proved to the extent of a million dollars odd. I feel a kind of proprietary interest in this revelation seeing as how, along with a few million others, I helped to swell that bullion bag. William hit the jackpot, as six-for-one listeners hope daily to do, with a vengeance.

William, you remember (nobody called him Billy), scintillated in the silent days, although I realize now he was a much older hero than would be permitted on a talking screen. The film actor of today must be a suave Ronald Coleman if he is to hold his charms unto middle age; and whatever else he was Mr. Hart was no matinee idol.

Perhaps his was a more serious era, even if slapstick was the highest form of humor. His role was always businesslike. His horse, for instance, was merely a means of accommodation; if it had a name I don't remember it. Certainly it did not approach Champion in popular acclaim.

* * *

Champion of course you know as the gallant steed that keeps pace with Gene Autrey's melodies. The pattern has changed, you see. No cowboy is worth his chaps now unless he can sing, or at least warble in dreamy tones with a guitar. In a way the Western has gone syrupy.

This is quite a consistent development, of course, in tune with the age. I can foresee a complete atrophy of the singing larynx, indeed, on the part of the average man. He doesn't even have to sing in the bathtub any longer; a flick of a switch will have him disturbing his tonsils. At any hour of the day a radio voice will substitute, Sinatra's perhaps. Here is a phenomenon if ever there was one. "The Voice," as he is miscalled, can neither sing nor act and his songwriters should be soaked head-first in pickle, yet he too will doubtless have his will proved at a million dollars odd. My proprietary interest in that event would be infinitesmal, howgver.

There never was such a deluge of song, if so it may be termed, and all the while the piano stands neglected in the corner of the living-room or maybe the basement. Sometimes I'm tempted to think the average man is getting over-lazy, and too fond of what comes out of cans—and some queer things do.

* *

No one ever heard William S. Hart sing, by the way. Even if talkies had been invented when he tapped his holster in warning, no croon would have come from his throat. He was like Zane Grey's Lassiter—tall, brooding, taciturn, a sort of unhandsome Valentino who made the heroines shiver with apprehensive delight. Somehow, though, I never felt the urge to kick him into action that overcomes me when I'm watching Gary Cooper, surely one of the most wooden actors alive.

The mantle of Hart, if memory serves, fell later on Tom Mix, more a hero of small boys than of adults. Mix was unhandsome also, but scarcely the brooding type. His menace was artless and only fatal to the West's bad men; for as a sheik his horse was a sizeable rival. Horses began to come into the picture then, paving the way for the Roy Rodgers and Triggers who combined to transform the dusty William S. Harts into gay caballeros of the sagelands. Some day someone will write a treatise on the fascination of prettying things up, and it ought to be the Hollywood blonde who can fall headfirst into a mud patch without disturbing a single hair of her elaborate coiffure.

* * *

I daresay we should all howl with laughter if we saw a William S. Hart film revived on the screen. It would be like the family album, a treasury of unintended humor. The film industry has come a long way since that master of the two-gun draw turned his sour face in our direction. Yes, it was rather sour—of a certainty it was stern and forbidding at least. Probably screen directors hadn't then learned how to be subtle. Everything was on a primitive scale, pie-throwing, hold-ups, love-making. The finer nuances of the movie art were still to come.

Now, as you know, we have them in abandon. Sometimes a movie is so subtle you wonder what it is all about, or if all the bother was worthwhile. At other times the production and its human content are almost perfect. In any case the film industry is one that has changed the human world, its manners, its modes, its speech. I doubt that William S. Hart ever thought his crude melodramas would some day graduate into such a significant role.

It is not inappropriate, then, that we who helped to give him a million dollars should recall this old-timer of the screen. He was, though uncouth and tawdry the medium, a pioneer of our present-day film enjoyment. Thank goodness for the change that has taken place, however.

Its Strength and Our Danger

(From The Gazette, Montreal)

WHENEVER it is suggested that Communism should be brought under legal control in Canada, many at once reply that this would involve an alarming invasion of civil liberties.

This type of reply has been well and fairly expressed by Hon. L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs. Mr. Pearson explained that he considered it wise to reserve the penalties of the Criminal Code for those who by some overt act have threatened the peace and security of the country. He thought it would be dangerous to go further. "Once we make it a crime to hold political ideas," he said, "merely because they are thought to be dangerous, it will then be but a short step to suppressing political ideas because they are not liked."

Yet the matter is scarcely clarified by such an explanation. For the fact is that from coast to coast in Canada those holding Communist ideas are being suppressed. And they are being suppressed because their ideas are thought to be dangerous and, therefore, are not liked.

There is probably no Government in Canada, including the Federal Government, that has not taken action, in one form or another, against Communists. And this action has not always been taken because they have committed overt acts, but because their dangerous ideas made it possible, or probable, that they would do so.

Much has been said concerning the dangers of the padlock law in the Province of Quebec. But it would seem that there are "padlocks" being used all across the country for similar purposes. It is known, for instance, that the Federal Government claims to be dismissing persons from employment in many of its departments. This process of screening does not concern only those who have been known to be guilty of overt acts, but includes those who may be guilty of holding ideas thought to be dangerous. As far as admission of Communists is concerned, there is a padlock on many a Government office in Ottawa.

But what is being done by governments is being supplemented by what is being done privately by organizations of various kinds. Labor unions have tried to padlock their premises to those holding Communist ideas. Any Communist trying to find admission to the bar of British Columbia (even if he had fulfilled all the academic requirements) would find a padlock shutting him out. Even those seeking refuge at the Meurling Refuge at Montreal may find the refuge padlocked against them, if they are Communists. And so it goes for offices and schools and committees without number.

All this means that, to all intents and purposes, it is being regarded as a crime to hold Communist ideas. And the confusion is increased because high officials in the Government insist on saying that it is really a crime. So it is when Mr. Pearson, while warning of the dangers of making it a crime to hold certain political ideas, calls upon Canadians never to forget that Canadian Communism "gets its support from and acts on orders from the centre of Communist international authority in Moscow." More than this, he points out that the Canadian Communists "do not observe any of the normal restraints or decencies which are generally accepted by free society." And he concludes: "This is its strength and our danger."

But it is seriously to be considered whether civil liberties are being very adequately protected by this practice of officially denouncing Communism as a foreign crime against the Canadian nation, while at the same time declaring that it is no crime to be a Communist. This confusing practice leaves to irregular and disorganized local action the task of forestalling Communists from carrying their dangerous ideas into overt acts.

It is a practice that is not proving very effective either in dealing with Communism, or in implementing the principle of civil liberties. It is difficult to think that a more comprehensive and orderly procedure against Communism can be indefinitely postponed.

Observation Car

By G. H.

A NEW tune entitled "Spring Will Be a Little Late This Year", introduced by Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra, would make a fine theme song for the weather man. . . . A man living in the Yukon Territory wrote to a friend here that the weather there was unusually warm for this time of year. Too bad we could not borrow some of it. . . . According to a resident of Heywood Avenue severe frosts last Winter were not responsible for killing a large number of shrubs and trees and creating heavy damage to others. He said it was due to the friction of snow and wind which burned the bark and leaves. He pointed out similar damage was frequently noticed in the Prairie Provinces. . . . Several years ago a man who purchased a white-colored dwelling on a Fairfield Street had it repainted an unusual salmon shade, much to the consternation of neighbors. The house changed hands again not long ago, and the new owner is busily slapping on white paint. One man's meat is another man's poison. That reminds me of the James Bay resident who sold a tearoom at Cadboro Bay and brought home several orange and green curtains which were not included in the deal. He installed them over the windows and engaged a friend to repaint the walls of three rooms dark green to match the loud curtains. As a final touch, he had the door of his own bedroom painted grey with pink trimming. Oddly enough he had his automobile repainted a sombre black. . . . A new coiffure for women was created by a hairdresser who found inspiration in the sight of ducks bobbing up and down in a pond. Other hair styles were undoubtedly inspired by Spaniels and English sheep dogs. . . . An English dramatist wrote a short play while waiting for his lunch in a restaurant. In some cafes he would also have had time to produce it.

The Flying Dutchman

(From The Ottawa Journal)

CANADA has several phantom ships, such as the burning vessel of the Bay of Chaleur, the apparition of Mahone Bay, and the craft said to be sometimes seen driving on the rocks of Halifax Harbor.

Australia has only one phantom vessel but it is vouched for by a prince who later became the Sailor King, the late George V. The story is told in a two-volume work, "The Cruise of Her Majesty's Ship Bacchante, Compiled From the Private Letters and Notebooks of Prince Albert Victor and Prince George of Wales, With Additions by John N. Dalton."

Published in London in 1886 the book is dedicated to Queen Victoria, grandmother of the two princes. Prince Albert Victor was the elder brother of Prince George, the later George V. He died not long after the end of the voyage.

The Bacchante had damaged her rudder and the princes were sailing from Melbourne to Sydney, New South Wales, in H.M.S. Inconstant. The entry for July 11, 1880, reads as follows:

"At 4 a.m. the Flying Dutchman crossed our bows, a strange red light, as of a phantom ship all aglow, in the midst of which light the masts, sails and spars of a brig 200 yards distant stood out in strong relief as she came up on the port bow. The lookout man on the forecastle clearly saw her, as did also the quarterdeck midshipman, who was sent forward at once to the forecastle; but on arriving there no vestige nor any sign whatever of any material vessel was to be seen, either near or right away to the horizon, the night being clear and the sea calm.

"Thirteen persons altogether saw her but whether it was Van Diemen or the Flying Dutchman or who else must remain unknown. The Tourmaline and Cleopatra, sailing on our starboard bow, flashed to ask whether we had seen the strange red light."

French Industrial Plan Surprising to Britain

Interpreting the News

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.

Monsieur Schuman's proposal for a pool of German and French heavy indutary contains the germ of a great deal more than the mere integration of Western economy.

International control of coal and steel means international control of the ability to make war. It would be a sort of "Baruch Plan" which, instead of merely seeking to control the atom bomb, would control practically all weapons.

If such workable international control could be established, with United Nations participation in the control authority, as Schuman suggests, it would mean that Germany and France could not go to war with each other again and that they would be a tremendous force if involved in war together.

The stabilizing effect of such a condition on the whole of Europe staggers the imagination.

SPECTACULAR

If, as Schuman suggests, the other industrial countries joined in, the economic effect would be equally spectacular.

Under the proposal, France and Germany would become a unit in so far as the production and marketing of coal and steel are concerned. There would be free competition within a single market, no more customs duties, no more preferential scales and freight rates.

The combine would produce 24 to 27 million tons of steel a year, more than Russia and more than one-fourth of American production. If Britain joined, her 18 million tons would be added.

Britain has been taken by surprise, and her first reaction was one of fear. The United States State Department, responsible for American relations with Britain, exhibits a notable ability to restrain its enthusiasm, although Secretary Acheson "approves and sympathizes" with the "intent."

FEARS GERMANY

Britain has an inherent fear of German competition in the world steel markets. The proposed combine would be larger than any single United States company, thus presenting formidable competition in world trade unless United States exports were handled as a unit by the Government, an alternative which would enhance the already-joined battle in this country over free competition.

Mr. Acheson himself only Wednesday night took the opportunity to tell a London audience that some sacrifice of purely national interests is going to be necessary to overcome the problems faced by the Western Powers in maintaining the ability of their economies to support the cold war.

This was coupled with a plea for closer and more organic contact between Germany and the West. He was talking directly at Britain.

The response of the Bonn Government has been two-fold in its expressions of co-operating. The Schumann plan was recived by Chancellor Adenauer as "generous" and as "creating the pre-conditions for making any further conflict between France and Germany impossible."

BALANCING ACT

This statement was followed almost immediately by the announced decision of the West German Government to cast its lot with the Western Allies in any event. This marks a turning away from the idea entertained by some Germans that they might become a bridge between East and West. And the idea of some other Germans that they might seek to do a balancing act until it is clear who will win the cold war, and then attach themselves to the winner.

One of the best recommendations for the plan came from Berlin, where the entire Russian-controlled press attacked it bitterly.

Senate Upholds Margarine Tax

OTTAWA, May 11 (CP).—A protracted and sometimes heated debate on margarine ended in the Senate today with the Chamber voting 38 to 14 to defeat a motion seeking removal of the 8 per cent sales tax on the butter substitute.

Party lines were ignored in the first formal division of the session. The farm element almost to a man combined to defeat the campaign of Senator W. D. Euler (L., Ontario), Waterloo, Ont., businessman, to eliminate the three-cents-a-pound tax on margarine.

Security Called Reason For Releasing Scientists

OTTAWA, May 11 (CP).—The National Research Council, Government scientific centre engaged on important defence and associated studies, has let one or two foreign-born scientists go largely for security reasons, it was indicated officially today. Twenty-seven nationalities are represented among its 3,000 personnel.

The departures were made in the form of resignations and arose from the same sort of security screening which led to the recent disclosure that there have been three "separations" from the National Film Board.

The council's jurisdiction includes the Chalk River atomic project but the official who made known the resignations said the screening of the project's employees before they ever enter its premises is so comprehensive "it couldn't happen there."

The statement came from F. T. Rosser, director of administration, in testifying before the Commons committee on the N.R.C. and in elaborating later to reporters.

WORD TO WISE

Mr. Rosser testified that the council hires scientists for terms and in "plenty" of cases men who were not fitting in were informed before their term elapsed that they would not be rehired. Given that tip, they resigned.

J. L. Gibson (Ind., Comox-Alberni) asked if any of the staff "have been let go for security reasons over the past two years?"

Mr. Rosser said the "correct answer to that is yes." The record, however, would show a resignation. The reasons for resignations varied greatly and in some cases were multiple.

"You ask if security was the reason in any case. It may have been a reason in one or two cases."

Dr. E. A. McCusker (L., Regina City) asked "is such a man followed to see if he doesn't get the same sort of a job elsewhere in the Government?"

Mr. Rosser said "that's not our business."

Oddities

TRENTON, N.J., May 11 (AP).—Jack Walsh lifted two men and an elephant four inches last night.

The two men and the elephant were standing on a specially-constructed platform, and the estimated gross weight was more than 3,000 pounds. Walsh got under the platform and lifted it with his back.

Newspapermen said they detected no signs of trickery.

The stunt was staged by the Hunt Brothers circus at a benefit for a nearby Lions Club. Walsh weighs 178 pounds, stands five feet, eight inches, and says he has lifted 4,000 pounds in pig iron.

WINNIPEG, May 11 (CP).—A Winnipeg housewife, rushing around her flooded home in knee-length rubber boots, today paused long enough to open a letter delivered by a postman, also in hip-waders. It was her water bill.

DECATUR, Ill., May 11 (INS).—Bank Auditor Cal Waggoner is paying off bets today for an unusual reason—it didn't rain in Decatur on May 10.

For 45 years the 89-year-old Waggoner has been betting that it will rain May 10. He explained that "it looked like a wonderful way to get some easy money." Since 1905 he has won 25 times and lost only ten.

Waggoner refuses details on his bets, but admits he keeps the amount "sort of low, so I won't go broke if I lose."

Personal Incomes Hit New U.S. High

WASHINGTON, May 11 (INS).—The Commerce Department reported today that personal income of Americans reached a new record high in March—Hitting an annual rate of $222,700,000,000.

Officials said the increase was a temporary development attributable to resumption of coal mining after a long strike and the payment of $2,800,000,000 worth of insurance dividends to veterans.

After allowing for the two special factors in March, personal income actually increased $1,000,000,000 over February. Practically every group shared in the rise except farmers and proprietors.

President Hits Detracters Of "Fair Deal"

COULEE DAM, Wash., May 11 (AP).—President Truman took on two weighty adversaries today — the Senate's filibustering critics of his civil rights proposals and former President Herbert Hoover.

The touring President turned from a dedication of Grand Coulee Dam to voice an appeal to Congress to pass a pending fair employment practices commission bill.

Mr. Truman softened his call for enactment of the civil rights bill with a claim—obviously directed at long-talking Southern Democrats—that "we can advance the common welfare without harming the dissenting minority."

Earlier, at the dedication of a new generator unit for the dam project, Mr. Truman fired back at critics—including Hoover—who describe his "fair deal" program as heading down "the last mile" toward Socialism.

RINGING DENUNCIATION

Mr. Truman dedicated Grand Coulee Dam with a ringing denunciation of the "timid or short-sighted or selfish" people who oppose such public power projects.

Asserting that "we shall not be stopped by discredited claims or by tattered slogans," the President declared:

"We will still have to fight those who imagine that every progressive action is a step down that famous last mile to Socialism."

Mon C. Wallgren, member of the Federal Power Commission and former Governor of Washington, told reporters Grand Coulee first was "talked about" in the Hoover Administration. Wallgren is riding the Presidential train.

He added, however, that the project was only in the planning stage until 1933, when the late Franklin D. Roosevelt took office. Roosevelt once visited the dam site and dedicated it.

Young Girl Wins $160,000 Damages

PLACERVILLE, Calif., May 11 (AP).—A settlement of $160,000 was approved yesterday in court for 14-year-old Imogene Wittsche who lost two legs in a boating accident on Lake Tahoe. The settlement was made by Phil Davis, wealthy Oakland motorcar dealer, whose boat severed both the girl's legs below the knees.

Big Three Foreign Ministers Discuss Means to Strengthen Western Defence

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—The Foreign Ministers of Britain, France and the United States today opened a new discussion on means to strengthen the West against Russia in the Orient and Europe.

"It is recognized that in the present world situation the preservation of peace requires renewed efforts of co-operation on all fields," a communique said, "particularly in the building up of an effective defence through the North Atlantic Treaty and the strengthening of the economic foundation of the Western Powers to support these efforts."

AGREE ON MEASURES

Defence mainly occupied the three—State Secretary Acheson, Foreign Secretary Bevin and Foreign Minister Schuman. The meetings will last three days.

It was learned that the three ministers were in considerable agreement on measures to be taken in the "hot" guerrilla wars in Indo-China and Malaya, and in the cold war in Europe.

Neither the German situation nor the French proposal for pooling Europe's coal and steel production came up in the opening session, although these subjects are considered to be major topics of the conference.

One of the problems discussed today was a tangle between economic and defence chiefs of the Atlantic Pact countries. The economic chiefs decided at a recent meeting in Brussels that the European countries concerned could not possibly pay for all the arms the military chiefs considered necessary.

MAY URGE TRIMMING

To reconcile these views, the Big Three are expected to recommend that a permanent committee be set up to trim the demands of the military to the resources on hand.

It is expected the European countries, which are receiving $1,000,000,000 in arms under the pact, will call for more military help from the United States. Acheson agreed in Paris early this week to send additional American arms to help the French in their fight against Communist-led guerrillas in Indo-China.

Persons attached to the delegations of the Big Three said that, while rearmament is vital, it cannot be allowed to undermine the economic recovery thus far achieved in Europe at considerable cost.

No final decisions are expected before Saturday.

Life Magazine Banned in Egypt

CAIRO, May 11 (AP).—The Council of Ministers last night banned Life Magazine from Egypt forever. No reason was given but Egyptian officials expressed indignation last month over a story about King Farouk.

APPEAL REJECTED

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 11 (AP).—Hungary's Supreme Court of Justice refused today to cut the 15-year-prison sentence of Robert A. Vogeler, American businessman convicted last February on spy charges. The court also rejected the appeals of Edgar Sanders, a Briton sentenced to 13 years on the same charges, and five Hungarian co-defendants.

Brilliant Gymnastic Show Applauded By Audience of More Than 2,000

More than 2,000 appreciative Victorians were treated to a colorful spectacle in the Memorial Arena last night when the touring Danish Gymnastic Team presented a scintillating display under the auspices of the Victoria Lions Club.

Organized by Erik Flensted-Jensen and Miss Kirsten Stampe Andersen and coached by Frade Jensen and Jens Eliif Welling, the team drew continuous applause with a flawless performance. Professor Gunnar Engberg Hansen introduced some of the dance numbers as well as acting as accompanist.

Lovely in their blue tunics with embroidered Danish flags, the girls opened the actual show routine with a demonstration of rhythmic gymnastics.

STRENUOUS GYMNASTICS

The men followed with a more strenuous show of fundamental gymnastics that demonstrated marvellous flexibility, co-ordination and strength. After swinging through a routine of stretching exercises, the team switched to passive exercises and finished its turn with balance exercises.

Next the girls gave another demonstration of co-ordination and grace with a series of exercises on the balance beams. Rhythmic exercises concluded this act.

A colorful series of authentically-costumed Scandinavian folk dances thrilled the crowd. Morten's Polka, the Friends' Reel, the Swedish Schottische, the Half Chain, the Dobbelt Quadrille and the boisterous Ox Dance brought smiles and hearty laughter as well as applause.

SOLO PERFORMANCE

After a brief intermission, Jens Welling gave a solo tumbling and balancing act that featured a one-hand handstand. A stellar hand-to-hand balance routine and an incredible trampolette performance followed.

The entire men's team flipped and balanced its way through a first-class show of horse, box and buck vaulting. Six men on the horse in a long-arm handstand featured this section of the show.

Without stopping, the tumblers went into a routine of back handsprings and back layout somersaults, some with half and full turns added.

The show concluded with a salute and march exit. Mayor Percy E. George gave a brief address of welcome to the Danish team and Mr. Flensted-Jensen replied for the visitors.

Hidden Discs Still Worth Stated Value

Those $10 and $5 discs hidden by the Esquimalt Community Association in connection with its recent community celebrations are still worth their stated value.

Clues to the whereabouts of the discs were printed in the official celebrations program. The hunt will continue until midnight Thursday, May, 18.

This was decided last night at an executive meeting of the association.

The draw for prizes will be held Friday, May 19. An executive member said the association would likely "end up in the black" when the books were finally balanced.

Refrigerated Tuna Boat Leaves Soon

VANCOUVER, May 11 (CP).—The first Canadian refrigerated tuna boat to head for Mexican waters leaves next week, skipper-owner Capt. Norman G. Ryall said today.

The Ms. Rosalie III carries a $4,000 investment in coil refrigeration, compared to the plain ice pack used customarily. She will make the 2,000-mile trip, her skipper says, because of the spotty tuna fishing in northern waters.

The season here goes only from about late July to the first two weeks in August while further south albacore fishing extends until the end of October. The 44-foot vessel can pack 20 tons of tuna.

Air Arrivals Battled With Flood

Two young boys who fought a losing battle with the rampaging Red River in Winnipeg arrived in Victoria yesterday aboard a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane.

Larry Robinson, 14, and his brother Errol, 8, sons of T.C.A.'s Captain Charles R. Robinson, had been packing sandbags for the past six days in an attempt to stem the flood of the mighty river.

Larry, who was living in the Kildonan district, a suburb of Winnipeg, said the schools had been closed for some time and children were helping workers in piling and carrying bags of sand.

BASEMENT FILLED

"Our basement is filled with water and we've moved all our furniture to the top floor," he added.

Other Winnipeg passengers aboard the plane were: Mrs. Sidney Hechter, with her eight-months-old boy, Mark; and Mrs. Lubin Crystal, with her two children, Maxine, 9, and Terry, 4.

"The heavy flooding is in the suburb districts," Mrs. Crystal said as she was met by her father, Ben Hechter, 248 Douglas Street. "Basements downtown are all flooded. Restaurants, shows and schools are closed."

Some Things That "START" in Beer Parlors!

Let's look at some inevitable happenings that start in Beer Parlors, everywhere and all the time—awful, heart-rending, soul-destroying happenings that are NO EXCEPTION.

Broken homes—lost jobs—neglected children—"Holdups" and robberies—ever-increasing ACCIDENTS AND DEATHS FROM DRUNKEN DRIVING—squandered earnings—Beer Parlors everywhere are the spawning grounds for these conditions.

The Beer Parlor promoters can't stop the news—in printing these happenings our newspapers are faithful to their trust and to their calling.

Those who would make profits from such conditions are ready with a score of "reasons" as to why Victoria should have Beer Parlors—but their only real reason is that they may make bigger profits by selling more beer.

Today, Victoria is spending over $5 million annually in liquor (as against $1½ million for Schools), yet the beer people have the effrontery to ask YOUR permission to sell still more!

They say only a few hotels will be licensed. But as a matter of fact THEY would have no say at all as to the number of licences that would be issued. Passage of the Beer Parlor Plebiscite would only be the thin edge of the wedge. It's a wedge that would be driven deeper and ever deeper into the very vitals of our City of Victoria. It's a great distinction to be one of the very few cities without Beer Parlors . . . and that's one of the distinctions that visitors and tourists LIKE. Let's hang on to this admirable and profitable distinction. NO TOURIST EVER STAYED AWAY FROM VICTORIA BECAUSE WE DIDN'T HAVE BEER PARLORS.

VOTE "NO" May 30, and Save Our City from Common Beer Parlors

And remember, many good causes have been lost for want of a single vote. Don't let that single vote be your vote. Go to the polls and vote "NO" for the good of Victoria and everyone in it, including "the stranger within our gates."

To fight this menace, send your contribution to Victoria Citizens' Association, Room 14, 749 Broughton St. An official receipt will be mailed.

Cadets Receive Annual Inspection

Ottawa staff officer, Major W. Mitchell, looks over Canadian Scottish Cadet Corps during annual inspection at Armoury Thursday night. Forty cadets on parade put on tactical display for visiting officer following review and march past.

Corps Given Inspection

Sgt.-Major Sutherland Wins Trophy At Canadian Scottish Cadets' Review

The skirl of bagpipes and the swirl of kilts marked the annual inspection of the Canadian Scottish Cadet Corps at Bay Street Armoury Thursday night.

Inspecting officer Major W. Mitchell of Ottawa took the salute with Major A. S. Christian, Western Command cadet officer from Edmonton, as 40 cadets marched past in review after lining up for inspection.

OUTSTANDING CADET

Presented with the MacDonald Trophy as the most outstanding cadet of the year was Sgt.-Major Ian Sutherland. Mrs. S. J. MacDonald made the award.

The Canadian Scottish Regimental Pipe Band attended the ceremony and played the march past.

The corps colors were carried on parade by Q.S.M. James Caldwell. The Canadian Scottish cadets are one of the few cadet corps in Canada carrying their own colors.

CONDUCT SCHEME

Following the inspection, cadets put on a mock tactical scheme and training manoeuvres.

Other inspecting officers were Lieut.-Col. Walter Mosedale, Major J. J. Andrews, Captain G. Brown and Lieut. G. D. Stephens.

In charge of the parade was Cadet Sgt.-Major Cecil Gould.

Accept Tender At Ladysmith

LADYSMITH, May 11.—Mayor Leonard Ryan and aldermen accepted a bid of $100,365 from Dominion Securities Ltd., for debentures representing the city's portion of the school building by-law.

First reading was given to a temporary loan by-law authorizing the city to borrow $10,000 through the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The money is required to carry on city business until current revenue comes in, from which the loan will be repaid.

It was decided to remove a traffic marker at the intersection of Roberts Street and First Avenue. It has been a source of annoyance to motorists for years. A white square, flush with the street, was proposed as an alternative. It was felt there should be some distinguishing mark to guide traffic.

Clinic at Colwood

Case Sent to Higher Court

Key Witness Swears Convicted Man Threatened to Kill Him if Sentenced

A man charged with threatening to kill a witness if he testified against him was committed for trial in a higher court by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court yesterday.

Roy Lindley was charged with attempting by threats to dissuade Arthur Howard Rabey, 2527 Prior Street, from testifying against him in a theft trial.

Rabey's testimony turned out to be a key factor in the conviction of Lindley Wednesday for stealing four bottles of beer and a flashlight from Rabey's car when it was parked near the Top Notch Cafe, April 1.

IMPRISONED

Lindley was sentenced yesterday to four months' imprisonment.

Rabey, a part-time waiter at the Top Notch, told the court that Lindley had threatened him in the court while awaiting trial on the theft charge.

"I was sitting in the court room waiting to give evidence. Lindley came and sat beside me. He said 'What are you going to do, Howard, are you going to bump me?' I didn't answer. I didn't even look at him."

Rabey said Lindley tried to persuade him to say he had given a friend permission to enter his car and that the friend had given permission to Lindley. Then, Rabey reported, Lindley said:

"I'LL BUMP YOU"

"Do you know what I'm going to do, Howard? I'm going to charge you with bootlegging. You're in bad trouble. I'll bump you hard."

Later Raby testified that Lindley said: "If I do time I'll knock your . . . head off. I'm going to kill you, Rabey, how do you feel now?"

Rabey said the threats were repeated several times. Producing notes he took just after the conversation, he quoted Rabey as saying:

"If I go up for even one day I'll kill you. Life is short, Rabey, think it over. I'll do my few months, then I'll get out and kill you. Don't look at Mason (Const. John Mason) because he can't help you. I'll kill you and I'll get away with it too."

MORE SERIOUS

City Prosecutor C. L. Harrison said the alleged offence was more serious than he had thought at first. "It is serious enough to be investigated by a higher tribunal," he said.

The court was told Lindley had a criminal record dating back to 1928 and ending with a three-year term in 1945.

Little Dutch Princess To Lay Stone in London

By WILLIAM BOSS

LONDON, May 11 (CP).—A little Dutch princess who forme her first words in Canada is to lay a cornerstone in London in July.

Ten-year-old Princess Irene of The Netherlands, second in line to Holland's throne, will inaugurate the rebuilding of the Church of Austin Friars in the City of London, oldest Dutch church in the world outside The Netherlands.

Previously it had been announced that Queen Juliana would perform the ceremony but plans now are for her daughter to officiate, with the Queen probably accompanying her.

Princess Irene's name already is familiar to former Canadian soldiers, Canadian-trained Netherlands troops, formed into the Princess Irene Brigade, fought during part of the World War as part of the First Canadian Army.

The little girl was brought to England during the May, 1940, flight from Holland of The Netherlands Royal family and Government. Christened a month later in the private chapel at Buckingham Palace, she then, with others of the family, spent the remaining years of the war at Ottawa.

Princess Irene, with her elder sister, Princess Beatrix, and her Ottawa-born younger sister, Princess Margriet, attends the village school at Soest, near Soestdijk Palace, home of The Netherlands Royal family.

So great became public interest in the three little girls who went to school just like any other Dutch children that Queen Juliana had to tell her subjects to stop making a fuss of the girls.

The Queen said that otherwise the children's mode of upbringing would have to be changed and their public freedom curtailed.

Shirley Baker Heads Omicron

At a recent meeting of Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi officers for the year were installed as follows: President, Shirley Baker; vice-president, Joyce McCuaig; recording secretary, Betty Rusliton; corresponding secretary, Margaret Walker; treasurer, Sylvia Morrow. Retiring president, Darlaine Woodburn, was presented with the traditional gavel guard by Shirley Baker.

The Mother's Day tea will be held on May 14 at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

The cultural program was on "Art" under the chairmanship of Margaret Walker. Those taking part were Dorothy Gower, Hilda Bates, and Joyce McCuaig.

Plans were discussed for the annual Blossom Frolic at the Crystal Garden Ballroom on May 30. The next meeting on May 29 will be held at the home of Mrs. Grace Waters.

SALE TONIGHT

The W.A. to St. John's Church, Colwood, will hold a sale of work and home cooking this evening commencing at 8 o'clock. Cribbage and 500 will be played. There will be prizes and refreshments.

Tea Planned For Mothers By Chapter

The Royal Bride Chapter, I.O.D.E., will hold the annual Mother's Day tea on Sunday, May 14, at the home of Mrs. M. C. Sands, 2460 Quadra Street, from 3 to 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. H. N. Parrott will be general convener and her committee includes Mrs. G. G. Rennie, Mrs. R. J. Clarke, Mrs. R. Saunders, Mrs. W. R. Freethy and Mrs. F. J. Ritchie.

Mrs. C. L. Bishop, Mrs. P. E. Corby, Mrs. Sands, Mrs. J. W. Gillis, Mrs. F. J. Ritchie and Mrs. R. J. Clarke will preside at the tea urns.

During the afternoon Miss Mary Armitage will render solos.

Send Food To England

Children's Aid Plan Tea and Shower

The W.A. to the Family Welfare and Children's Aid Society will hold the annual tea and baby shower on Monday, May 15, in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company. Mrs. Donald McAdie, president, and Mrs. C. E. Logan, vice-president, will receive the guests.

The W.A. appeals to the public to assist in their work in caring for the nurseries. Last year 70 babies under the age of four months were cared for by the auxiliary. Members made dresses, rompers, nightgowns, jackets, bonnets, two dozen bedspreads, dozens of diapers and other articles of clothing. They also purchased cribs, mattresses, blankets, sheets and an electric heater.

Pictured above, Mrs. E. James, left, a member of the Welfare House staff, and Miss Phyllis Wightman, R.N., members of the auxiliary, explain the work of the auxiliary to Miss W. M. Harrison, (in hat and coat) and Mr. J. Mitchell.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Lionel S. Farrell, McTavish Road, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on May 8, the date also being Mrs. Farrell's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrell entertained at a family dinner that evening and later were at home to their friends. Those present at the dinner were Mrs. Joseph Ballantyne of Los Angeles and Miss Joy Longley of Pasadena, sisters of Mrs. Farrell, and their children with their families, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Farrell Jr., of Saanich, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Farrell with Judith Lorraine and David of Port Moodie, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Culp and Mary Lorraine Culp.

Highlight of the evening was when Mrs. Farrell cut the three-tiered wedding cake made by Mrs. Lionel Farrell Jr. and decorated by Mrs. R. E. Nimmo. Two other cakes were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Farrell by the Relief Society of the Church of Jesus Christ Latter Day Saints.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Farrell were married in Logan, Utah, and shortly after went to Alberta. In 1931 they moved to Saanich where they have resided since that time.

Witzel Theory 62 Per Cent Correct

FRANKFURT, May 11 (INS). — A German doctor who months ago examined the eyes of 100 expectant American mothers tonight was proved 62 per cent correct in predicting the sex of the children.

Dr. Wilhelm Witzel's "eyes have it" theory of pre-natal sex prediction was tested under supervision of the U.S. Army Medical Corps. The results were announced by the 97th U.S. General Hospital in Frankfurt.

Witzel, 63-year-old graduate of Heidelberg and other universities, first disclosed his theory last December in an interview with International News Service.

He claimed he had been accurate in eight out of ten cases in experiments conducted over a ten-year period.

The army became interested and supervised the 100 tests whereby Witzel microscopically looked at the iris of an expectant mother's eyes and made his forecast.

Capt. Donald Kuntze, New York Medical College graduate in charge of the scientific test, termed the small-scale survey "disappointing."

Witzel, himself, was disappointed at the results, but said "I am still confident that this method can gain up to the highest maximum success."

In the tests, Witzel explained, he looked into the eyes of the women and made his predictions by examining congestions of blood in the eyes, and spots or changes in the coloring of the iris.

Witzel said that not all of his prerequisites for the test were fulfilled such as examining women in the early months of pregnancy. The physician said:

"In my recent examinations, alas, it was not possible to assemble 100 expectant mothers who would still be here in six or seven months' time with any degree of certainty owing to army postings which are something I cannot predict."

German and British medical opinion polled in Frankfurt said they consider any results over 50 per cent accuracy worthy of further study.

Chamber Directors Endorse Resolutions of Harbor Group

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce this week endorsed the following resolutions submitted by its harbor development group:

That the Federal Government be asked to conduct dredging operations in upper reaches of the Inner Harbor between Point Ellice Bridge and the C.N.R. Bridge while dredge equipment was still in the area. (Presently a large dredge is operating in the area on contract with a large lumber firm.)

SIGNALS SOUGHT

That authorities concerned be asked about establishing some form of signal system on the Johnson Street Bridge to warn ships approaching from the opposite direction. It was pointed out recently there had been some "narrow escapes" involving ships approaching the bridge in opposite directions.

That the Department of Transport be asked to make an annual appropriation for a small vessel to keep the city's Inner Harbor clear of debris and floating logs. Shipping interests of the city claim many propellers are damaged by logs and heavy planks, and that floating debris constitutes an eyesore in the harbor.

Calls on City To Establish Disaster Unit

Victoria is one of the few major cities in North America which has not established an over-all body of control to act with lightning swiftness in the event of an emergency.

This information was given Mayor Percy George this week in a letter from Roy V. Parrett, emergency co-ordinator of the Victoria Emergency Corps of the American Radio Relay League.

Mr. Parrett called on the City Council to set up a civic disaster committee.

"Two recent earthquakes, severe storms, rockslides and other minor disturbances in this area are reminders that more serious disasters could befall the area," stated Mr. Parrett. "The possibility of further war should be considered too."

SEES CONFUSION

"One can imagine the confusion which would prevail here if a Nanoic shouuld burn at Victoria's pier or a Rimouski fire blazed through this community," continued Mr. Parrett.

He advised that such organizations as the Red Cross, Vancouver Island Rangers, St. John Ambulance Brigade and his own league were constantly prepared to give help. He added, however, that the efforts of these bodies required co-ordination by a civic - sponsored organization.

Aluminum Firm Not Altering Plans for B.C.

Assurance has been given to the Provincial Government that granting of water rights to the Aluminum Company of Canada for 400,000 horsepower by the Province of Quebec will not affect the company's plan for a $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 development in British Columbia, it was learned yesterday.

Reports from the East that the company had been granted additional power brought the suggestion here that the company might abandon its plans in British Colombia.

Lands Department officials said yesterday, however, that they had been advised of the Quebec deal and assured by the company that it would have no adverse effect on development plans in this province.

Due to the power shortage in Quebec, it is reported, the company is selling some of its developed power to the district around Arvida, the site of its big aluminum plant. This has brought a shortage in the company's own requirements and a part of the Arvida plant has been shut down.

Reeve Casey Chairman Of Park Group

Reeve Joseph Casey of Saanich, was named chairman of the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee at a meeting this week.

Other members of the committee include Alderman Harold Diggon, Alderman Waldo Skillings, Alderman Mrs. Hilda Baxter, Alderman William Pinfold, Councillor George Austin, Councillor E. P. Cummins and Councillor J. G. W. Ryan.

Attending yesterday's meeting were Saanich Municipal Clerk John Tribe, Henry Blakeney, superintendent of Saanich public works, and Morran Waller, City Council committee secretary.

The world's largest braided hose factory is located at Wilmington, Delaware.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during intervening times between the high and low waters as given. 0.6 foot must be subtracted from the heights in these tables to conform with the datum of soundings on the charts of the locality.

"I just want to know exactly how many people make up your household here and something about them."

"Yes, well in addition to myself and Dora Bunner, I have two young cousins living here at present, Patrick and Julia Simmons."

"Cousins? Not a nephew and niece?"

"No, they call me Aunt Letty, but actually they are distant cousins. Their mother was my second cousin."

"Have they always made their home with you?"

"Oh dear, no, only for the last two months. They lived in the South of France before the war. Patrick went into the Navy and Julia, I believe, was in one of the Ministries. When the war was over their mother wrote and asked me if they could possibly come to me as paying guests—Julia is training as a dispenser in Milchester General Hospital. Patrick is studying for an engineering degree at Milchester University. Milchester is only 50 minutes by bus, and I was very glad to have them here. This house is really too large for me. They pay a small sum for board and lodging and it all works out very well." She added with a smile, "I like having somebody young about the place."

"Then there is a Mrs. Haymes, I believe?"

"Yes. She works as an assistant gardener at Dayas Hall, Mrs. Lucas' place. The cottage there is occupied by the old gardener and his wife and Mrs. Lucas asked if I could billet her here. She's a very nice girl. Her husband was killed in Italy, and she has a boy of eight who is at school and whom I have arranged to have here in the holidays."

"And by way of domestic help?"

"A Mrs. Huggins from the village comes up five mornings a week and I have a foreign refugee with a most unpronounceable name as a kind of lady cook help. You will find Mitzi rather difficult, I'm afraid."

Craddock nodded. He was conscious in his own mind of yet another of Constable Legg's invaluable commentaries. Having appended the word "Scatty" to Dora Bunner, and "All right" to Letitia Blacklock, he had embellished Mitzi's record with the one word "Liar."

As though she had read his mind, Miss Blacklock said:

"Please don't be too prejudiced against the poor thing because she's a liar. I do really believe that, like so many liars, there is a real substratum of truth behind her lies. I mean that though her atrocity stories have grown and grown until every kind of unpleasant story that has ever appeared in print has happened to her or her relations personally, she did have a bad shock initially and did see one, at least of her relations killed. I really am sorry for her." She smiled.—"And also, when she wants to, she can cook very nicely."

"I'll try not to ruffle her more than I can help," said Craddock soothingly. "Was that Miss Julia Simmons who opened the door to me?"

"Yes. Would you like to see her now? Patrick has gone out. Phillipa Haymes you will find working at Dayas Hall."

"Thank you, Miss Blacklock. I'd like to see Miss Simmons now if I may."

Julia, when she came into the room, and sat down in the chair vacated by Letitia Blacklock, had an air of composure that Craddock for some reason, found annoying. She fixed a limpid gaze on him and waited for his questions.

Miss Blacklock had tactfully left the room.

"Please tell me about last night, Miss Simmons?"

"Well, a lot of tiresome people came—"

"They were?"

She gave him a limpid stare.

"Don't you know all this already?"

"I'm asking the questions, Miss Simmons," said Craddock pleasantly.

"My mistake. I always find repetitions so dreary. Apparently you don't. . . . Well, there was Colonel and Mrs. Easterbrook, Miss Hinchliffe and Miss Murgatroyd, Mrs. Swettenham and Edmund Swettenham, and Mrs. Harmon, the Vicar's wife. They arrived in that order. And if you want to know what they said—they all said the same things in turn. 'I see you've got your central heating on' and 'What lovely chrysanthemums!'"

Craddock bit his lip. The mimicry was good.

"The exception was Mrs. Harmon. She's rather a pet. She came in with her hat falling off and her shoe laces untied and she asked straight out when the murder was going to happen? It embarrassed everybody because they'd all been pretending they'd dropped in by chance. Aunt Letty said in her dry way that it was due to happen quite soon. And then that clock chimed and just as it finished, the lights went out and the door was flung open and a masked figure said, 'Stick 'em up, guys,' or something like that. It was exactly like a bad film. Really quite ridiculous. And then he fired two shots at Aunt Letty and suddenly it wasn't ridiculous any more."

"Where was everybody when this happened?"

Even when dried indoors... EVEN WITHOUT RINSING

Surf gives you Sweeter Washes

...whiter, brighter to look at!
...fresh-air-sweet to smell!

Surf contains an amazing detergent which removes not only every trace of soil and grease, but all "dirty clothes" odor, too! Your wash is so deep-down clean it's actually sweeter-smelling!

Your Surf-clean wash is perfection! Your eyes can tell how white and bright it looks. Your nose will report a sunshiny fresh-air sweetness—even when you've had to dry the clothes indoors.

What's more, you don't even have to rinse your clothes to get this cleaner, sweeter wash. Surf has the magic power of grabbing and holding the dirt in the wash water, so when you wring out the water you wring the dirt out with it.

When you don't rinse your Surf-clean wash, its astonishing purifying ingredient goes right on working in your clothes. (If you do want to rinse, add a little Surf to your rinse-water.)

All the Surf your grocer now has in his store is "no-rinse" Surf . . . specially developed—to save you hours of work and dollars in hot water and fuel bills.

Use Surf for EVERYTHING

Surf makes mountains of rich, long-lasting suds . . . suds that do 5 times the work of ordinary soaps in hardest water . . . suds that are powerful enough for your grimiest clothes yet safe, gentle for sheer lingerie . . . and easy on your hands.

So, try Surf next washday. See the difference between your Surf-clean wash and the washes you've had before.

"ORDINARY" CLEAN
Though you may think your wash is perfectly clean, a faint "musty" odor often betrays the presence of dirt, grease or scum. Rinsing won't get rid of this . . . but Surf does.

SURF CLEAN
Even without rinsing, Surf removes every last trace of dirt, grease and scum . . . every trace of odor, too! That's why it gets your clothes so white, so bright . . . so sweet!

A LEVER PRODUCT

If it's Surf-clean, it's really clean . . . EVEN WITHOUT RINSING

He stated that a team which competed at the Empire Games in New Zealand cannot be kept [illegible] Mr. Humber stated a performance at Vancouver as the aim for the B.A. Games.

He mentioned the lack of athletic facilities in Victoria as an example.

In a number of cases these athletes have been produced here with the lack of suitable facilities we have mentioned.

Discussing sportsmanship, Mr. Humber said he returned with a greater sense of national interest in sports existing in New Zealand. He said that this keen interest in sports had produced a wide range of facilities for New Zealand athletes.

He stated Victoria service clubs could do much to extend facilities here and suggested that all service clubs get together to build an athletic centre in which track and other sports events such as basketball could be held.

GAMES WERE GREAT

During the address Mr. Humber recounted for Optimist Club members some of the highlights of last Winter's trip to New Zealand.

The trip was a great thing," he stated. "I met some wonderful people and made many friends. I returned home with a new and better understanding of the different races represented.

He recalled the 1938 Olympic games, which were held in Sydney, Australia. He said the athletes from the Empire Games were the guests of the Empire Games Association and were treated royally.

Mr. Humber said that New Zealand was a good market for Canadian products and that Canada should be able to sell more goods to the entire country.

Mr. Humber stated the New Zealand people were friendly and that all citizens of the country looked good.

PREFERS VANCOUVER

Comparing the Games at Auckland with those which competed at the Empire Games in New Zealand last year Mr. Humber stated a preference for Vancouver as the site for the B.A. Games.

Making Money In Oil

CALGARY April 2nd — Has the average investor been making money in oil? There is no doubt that many investors with some combination of good judgment, good counsel, and good luck have realized substantial profits in recent years from the big development in Alberta oil. But perhaps the average investor has not fared so well. He has no special knowledge of companies and individuals in the oil industry on which to make sound judgments, no reliable sources of information and no time to keep a close watch on developments in the oil industry and the stock market.

AT LEAST that is the opinion of Clifton C. Cross well-known Alberta oil man who has promoted such successful Indepen dent oil companies as Gl[illegible] Limited, Ind. West Oil Company Ltd., British Empire Developments Ltd., and East Ledge Oil Co. Limited. He believes that not only have many investors been discouraged by investing on poor hunches or poor advice, but that many people who believe the Western oil industry has a bright future and would willingly invest in it will not take a chance on their own limited knowledge.

IT IS TO SOLVE this problem for average investors that Petroleum Incomes (Clifton C. Cross) Ltd. has been formed. This company aims [illegible] at purchasing better than average returns by assembling [illegible] during oil prosperity, stock in successful [illegible] companies and when conditions [illegible] price levels will be favourable [illegible] a holding company that [illegible] can exchange its shares [illegible] the [illegible] Petroleum Incomes [illegible] C. She was made an Officer of the Order of the British Empire for her outstanding work in the welfare field.

Others who will be awarded honorary doctorates today are M. E. Nichols, prominent journalist and a founder of The Canadian Press; Dr. A. I. Crease, past director of mental hygiene at Essondale, and Marion Lindeburgh, director of the McGill School of Nursing.

Kiwanians' Wives Show Men How Meeting Should Be Run

More than 40 members of the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club and their wives attended a banquet at the Oak Bay Golf Club last night. The women took over the meeting and made an excellent job of it.

Under the direction of Mrs. J. D. MacLean, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club, a program was presented that kept the men amused for more than an hour.

A take-off play, "Miss Popularity," highlighted the affair and was toasted with a wood-spoken. Those "casting part" were Mrs. William Young, Mrs. F. A. Robinson, Mrs. T. C. Moulds, Mrs. O. P. Thomson, Mrs. F. E. Morris and Mrs. A. B. McNeill.

A song using one of the clubs theme songs, with a slight variation in the lyrics, was another attraction. It was sung under the direction of Mrs. H. C. Gill, who composed the words, and Mrs. T. G. Clarke at the piano. Mrs. C. H. G. Mann also composed new words for the club song.

Al Smith, local radio artist, was one member of the club who did not enjoy the songs. He was equipped with a pair of earmuffs by the women to forestall any comment on their musical ability.

Noted Cunard Captain Ends 50 Years at Sea

Marine News

After almost 50 years of seafaring, Capt. James Quayle, master of the Cunard liner Media, took his ship into Liverpool harbor recently, then went ashore into retirement.

Capt. Quayle made his first trip to sea in 1902 when he was 15, aboard the 1,147-ton barque Grasmere. He later joined the Yola, a full-rigged Liverpool ship, and there completed his sea time before obtaining a master's certificate in the Hornby Castle. In 1912 he joined the White Star Line as fourth officer aboard the Runic.

During the Great War he served in the South Atlantic and North Sea as commander of British naval patrol craft. Between the two wars he was an officer aboard such famous liners as the Georgic, Britannia, Berengaria and Scythia. During the World War he was appointed for duty at the British Admiralty where he organized the Rescue Ship Service.

After serving as staff captain of the Queen Elizabeth and Mauretania after the World War, Capt. Quayle was appointed to his first command since 1946 when he became master of the Fort Ticonderoga. In addition to his other commands, he has since been captain of the Asia and Ascania.

SALMON A LUXURY

Salmon rates as a luxury in Britain today, Sir Andrew Jones, Chief of the United Kingdom Food Commission, said in Vancouver yesterday.

A housewife has to surrender almost all her points for one four-week basic ration period in order to get a single tall can of British Columbia salmon.

Sir Andrew, who has negotiated recent contracts, had high praise for British Columbia's salmon canning industry.

"Your industry here has invariably fulfilled every contract right up to scratch," he said. "They deliver the goods when and where they're wanted. They did that during the war, too, and we haven't forgotten it."

He said Britain will spend about $5,000,000 for Canadian salmon this year.

WINS THIRD HAT

Capt. Herman Gulbramsen, veteran halibut skipper, now has a collection of hats.

He collected his third "halibut hat" in Vancouver yesterday. The hat is awarded annually by National Harbors Board to the captain of the first British Columbia fishing vessel to bring a catch from the northern halibut grounds.

The New Westminster skipper is captain of the 65-foot Bessie Mac which brought in a load of 36,000 pounds, valued at more than $8,000. His third Vancouver "halibut hat," actually a handsome Stetson, will share a place with one he collected for the same honor at his home port of New Westminster.

BOAT TOWED TO HARBOR

A Coast Guard patrol boat early yesterday towed the disabled fishing vessel Doris into Friday Harbor after the craft broke a shaft off Turn Point in the San Juan Islands.

The 50-foot Tacoma vessel was packed to the gills with 22,000 pounds of halibut valued at $5,170.

The Doris, skippered by Peter Loft of Tacoma, was 18¼ miles from Friday Harbor when taken under tow. Five other persons were aboard.

HALIBUT CATCH

Since the halibut season opened May 1 along the Pacific Coast, more than 3,300,000 pounds of the big flat fish have been landed at British Columbia and American ports from commercial fishing area No. 2.

It is deemed certain that the quota of 25,500,000 pounds—set for the area—will have been caught by the end of the month. Officials of the International Fisheries Commission at Seattle report this season's halibut landings are about half a million pounds more than for the same period of last year.

Chamber Urges Council to Seek Federal Grant To Pay for Dredging Above Point Ellice Bridge

City Council was urged yesterday by the Chamber of Commerce to press the Federal Government for a grant to pay for dredging of the main harbor channel above Point Ellice Bridge.

In a letter to council it was pointed out by the Chamber that a dredge is now employed by private concerns in the area which could be used to deepen the channel.

The Chamber enclosed a letter from the Greater Victoria Mill Operators' Association which stated that the channel was not navigable at certain stages of the tide.

MUST AWAIT TIDE

"The industries bordering this area are making their own private arrangements to have work done fronting their property in order that their loading and unloading facilities may be utilized, but as it is now, it is necessary on many occasions to wait until high tide before they are able to float the scows down the main channel," it was stated.

As a gauge of business done by the mills in the area it was pointed out that they produced in excess of 1,000,000 feet of lumber last year and that one of the plants had now entered into an international agreement necessitating use of larger floating equipment.

"The present situation is going to prove most difficult and hazardous," it was declared.

The operators stated they would be able to hire more men if their operations could be extended as a result of a deepening of the channel. It was disclosed that more than 1,000 men are now receiving employment in the harbor area above Point Ellice Bridge.

DANGER NOTED

Companies in the area include Dalziel Box Co. Ltd., B.C. Forest Products, Ltd., Hudson Lumber Co. Ltd., Moore-Whittington Lumber Co. Ltd., P. W. Sawmills Ltd., and Harbor Sawmills Ltd. It was added that the Victoria Paving Co. Ltd. and the city held waterfront property above Point Ellice Bridge which would benefit by a navigable channel.

In addition, the Chamber of Commerce noted the grave danger of collision to marine traffic passing under Johnson Street Bridge and favored the placing of a system of warning signals to overcome the danger.

It was stated marine traffic under Johnson Street Bridge had "vastly increased," but that there was at present no way of warning a vessel proceeding toward the bridge from one side when a vessel was approaching from the other.

The Chamber of Commerce called on the city also to press the Federal Government for a grant to be used to pay for a major clean-up of the Inner Harbor.

"If an annual appropriation was made for this purpose the harbor would not be covered with logs and refuse as at present," it was explained.

Wireless Men Post Pickets On U.S. Docks

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11 (INS).—Ship radio officers of the C.I.O. American Radio Association posted pickets late today at the San Francisco waterfront piers of nine shipping companies.

A.R.A. President William Steinberg announced that the union has ordered similar action in other West Coast ports and on the Gulf and East Coasts.

Steinberg charged that the Pacific Maritime Association "tore up" the A.R.A.'s contract and locked out its members.

"This is a lockout," he declared. "There is no contract. The P.M.A. canceled our agreement. We've been locked out, and A.R.A. members do not work without a contract."

Six ships in San Francisco harbor were affected by the A.R.A. "token" picket lines.

A meeting with other C.I.O. maritime unions was scheduled for tonight to discuss the situation.

ADVICE TO MARINERS

Mariners are advised that during reconstruction of the Port Renfrew wharf in San Juan harbor, the automatic light at the point will be discontinued, and will be re-established when the wharf is completed.

Florida was discovered on Easter Sunday, March 27, 1513, by Ponce de Leon, a Spaniard.

Minister Quashes Charges

A Vancouver naval officer has had three of six court-martial charges dropped following a review of his case by the Ministeer of National Defence.

The original six charges were heard last January at H.M.C.S. Naden during court-martial proceedings against Lieut. (S.) W. C. Mundy.

He was originally found guilty on three charges of negligence in the performance of his duties and three of fraudulently omitting to account for money received.

"NOT PROVEN"

He was stationed aboard H.M.C.S. Ontario at the time of his court-martial.

The review read that "three charges of 'fraudulently omitting to account' were a nullity on the grounds that these charges had not been proven."

A sentence of two years' loss of seniority, dismissal from his ship (H.M.C.S. Ontario), and a severe reprimand, remain unchanged.

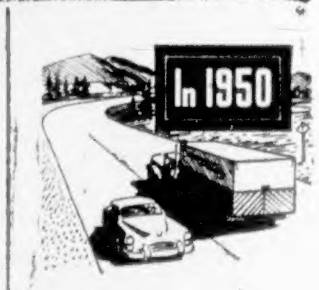
Ashcroft to Quesnel Stage at Clinton—1900

IN 1900 . . . 5600 MILES OF WAGON TRAILS

At the turn of the century in British Columbia population was small, transportation was crude. Winding, rutted pioneer trails afforded hazardous passage to farm carts and lumber wagons. Transportation was essential to develop primary industries to the full and to make secondary industries possible.



IN 1950 . . . 23,000 MILES OF HIGHWAYS

Half a century later the people of B.C. have carried through a road-building program which for the population is without parallel on this continent. This fine highway system opens up vast new opportunities . . . new frontiers to conquer. The pioneer spirit of the people of this Province was one of vision, enterprise and hard work. It was this spirit which has transformed B.C. from a wilderness to an industrial giant.

We have come far... we can go much farther

Today, as in 1900 our progress still depends on that greatest of all our resources, the vision, courage and enterprise of our men and women . . . supplemented by their integrity and the quality of the products they produce.

Rotarian Explains Aims Of Club's Youth Activity

Objectives of the youth committee within Rotary International were explained to members of Victoria's Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday by L. Thurston Harshman, who represented Rotary International at a recent district conference at Vancouver.

"What we, as adults, do today will vitally affect the youth of tomorrow," Mr. Harshman claimed, after advocating that all Rotarians do everything possible to work alongside, and with, youth.

He mentioned, as an example, a Rotary Club that had planned building a meeting hall for a group of Scouts. Rather than have the hall built and handed to the Scouts on a platter, Mr. Harshman explained, it would be far better to have the boys do as much work on the project as possible. The adults would be there to offer guidance and fellowship.

WANTS FELLOWSHIP

"Youth wants fellowship with adults," the speaker continued.

In a musical program which opened the meeting, several members of the Greater Victoria Schools' Band provided entertainment. Taking part were Ronald Beaumont, Garry Gilbert, James Glover, Ian Peace, Tom Gibbons, and Miss Doreen Robbie. Mrs. T. Dixon served as piano accompanist. The musical program had been arranged by H. J. Bigsby, supervisor of music for schools in Greater Victoria and John Gough, municipal inspector of schools.

May Decide in August On Boost in Premiums

Intimation that hospital insurance premiums may not be raised this year was given yesterday by Lloyd F. Detwiller, hospital insurance commissioner.

Present premiums are $21 for single persons and $33 for married couples or families.

Mr. Detwiller said the service would know better in August whether a premium increase will be necessary.

He stated the cost-of-living trend would be one of the main factors determining an increase or otherwise.

Another main factor would be the number of new hospital beds to be constructed. Some municipalities have not yet completed their building plans for this year, he said.

Hanging Flower-Baskets May Appear on June 12

VICTORIA'S famed hanging flower baskets likely will be placed on lamp standards in the downtown area early in the morning of June 12, Parks Administrator W. H. Warren said yesterday.

He explained that the date for the annual appearance of the baskets could be fixed only tentatively at present because of the uncertainty of weather conditions.

He said the late Spring had already put plants two weeks behind their regular growing schedule.

Mr. Warren said it was possible that the flower baskets might appear a week earlier than the tentative date if the plants recovered quickly from the effects of the late Spring.

Unions Claim 30 Members At Gravel Pit

Application for certification for some 30 employees of Producers' Sand and Gravel, Albert Head, soon will be made jointly by the Teamsters' Union and the International Gravel Pit, Quarries and Building Supply Union, a branch of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union, all A.F.L.-T.L.C.

This was announced yesterday by Bill James, international representative of the laborers' union.

The gravel workers' union has signed up 29 employees of the company and the teamsters, one, Mr. James said.

The announcement stirred speculation as to possible differences at the gravel pits, a subsidiary of Evans, Coleman & Johnson Ltd., where four of the workers have belonged to the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers for a number of years.

Three of the men are employed as operators of cranes rented from the building supply firm.

Accused Should Not Be Tried Twice For Same Offence, Lawyer Argues

The ancient common law protection against being tried twice for the same offence was argued in a Saanich police court case yesterday.

Trial of Sergeant Thomas Stevenson, city police, under the dangerous driving section of the Criminal Code opened before Magistrate A. I. Thomas and was adjourned until next Thursday after two new witnesses had been heard.

This is the second charge laid in the long-drawn-out case, which arose out of an accident October 24 when a car driven by Stevenson was in collision with Murray Easton, seven, 3441 Bonair Place, on Shelbourne Street near Cedar Hill Road. The boy was seriously injured.

FIRST CHARGE

An earlier charge under the old Section 57, or careless driving section, of the Provincial Motor Vehicle Act, was dismissed by Magistrate H. C. Hall, January 26.

Two months later in a judgment handed down in Supreme Court, Mr. Justice Macfarlane declared the old Section 57 ultra vires of the Province, because it described essentially the same offence as the Criminal Code.

Meanwhile, City Prosecutor Claude Harrison had lodged an appeal in County Court against Magistrate Hall's dismissal of the case. The Crown decided to drop the appeal, however, and lay a new charge under the Criminal Code. Mr. Harrison said the decision was reached before the Provincial statute had been outlawed.

(The Provincial section was replaced later by a new one, but this had no bearing on the Stevenson case.)

LAWYER PLEADS

Yesterday Defence Counsel Joseph McKenna pleaded the long-established principle that a man cannot be placed twice in peril of conviction for the same offence.

"The Crown mustn't take two bites of a cherry," he said. He cited leading cases and statutes in an attempt to show that a plea of "autrefois acquit," or previously acquitted, would be the proper one.

"I submit that production of the magistrate's certificate of dismissal is an absolute answer to this charge," he said.

"It has been British law for generations that a man cannot be punished twice for the same offence."

He quoted a portion of Mr. Justice Macfarlane's judgment which held that offences described in the old provincial Section 57 and in the Criminal Code were substantially the same.

FIRST TIME

"I've been practising here for 30 years and I've never had a case like this before," he said.

C. L. Harrison, Crown prosecutor, said citizens accused of offences have certain rights, but "the public has certain rights as well."

He argued that the new charge was an entirely separate and more serious matter. He read other authorities in an attempt to show that a new charge may be laid arising out of the same matter, and told the court that he intended to produce new evidence.

Magistrate Thomas ruled that the case must go on. "There's a specific charge laid under the Criminal Code and I wish to proceed under that charge," he said.

The prosecution called Frederick A. Post, 4823 Dieppe Road, Royal Oak, truck driver, who said he had seen the accident but did not report it before because "I didn't want to get tangled up in it myself."

SAW CAR SWERVE

He said he was driving between 30 and 35 miles an hour when he saw the Stevenson car in front gradually pulling away from him. He saw it swerve on the road ahead of him. He judged it was going between 40 and 45 miles an hour.

Mr. Post said he slowed down and passed the scene of the accident, where he saw a number of children "milling around." He drove on because he "didn't want to have anything to do with it."

Harold E. Hobden, garage mechanic, said he tested the Stevenson car and found it had a stopping-distance of 23 feet at 20 miles per hour on a wet pavement.

The board will ask churchmen of all denominations in the district to draw the attention of their parishioners to the graduation in their sermons on Sunday, May 28. Local newspapers have also been requested to note the date in their news columns, and to comment editorially on the ceremonies.

Rebukes Ratepayers

NANAIMO, May 11.—Northfield ratepayers, who "tried to pull a fast one on the Provincial Minister of Education," have been rapped by Inspector William Plenderleith of Nanaimo School District.

Mr. Plenderleith told the Nanaimo school board here that "the ratepayers deliberately misrepresented the school situation to Mr. Straith, when he visited this community. They were trying to pull a fast one."

Ratepayers had described their school as an unsanitary fire trap, blaming inadequate water supplies on lack of facilities.

"The ratepayers there know that money has been set aside to make repairs, but they did not mention this to the minister," Mr. Plenderleith said.

Traffic Signal Causes Debate

ALBERNI, May 11.—Question of who should be responsible for the installation and maintenance of a traffic control system at the Johnston Street E. & N. Railway crossing is still undetermined following receipt of a letter by the Alberni City Council from the Department of Transport.

The department said it would assume a 40 per cent responsibility in crossings constructed prior to 1909, but was not taking a portion of the cost here as the crossing had not been built until a year or two after that date. The department said it would bear a portion of the costs on later crossings according to the existing agreement between the C.P.R. and the Provincial Department of Public Works.

Aldermen will write the Provincial Department in the hope of securing further information.

Aldermen Buy Alberni Truck

Nanaimo Outlines Events For Empire Day Program

NANAIMO, May 11.—May 24 is always a big day in the city of Nanaimo. This year will be no exception, judging from the activities planned by the energetic and hard-working committee in charge of arrangements.

Headed by Harry Freeman, who has served on May 24 committees for the past 50 years, representatives from various organizations in the city have been meeting weekly to line up and co-ordinate the long list of items on the program.

Actually events will get under way on the Saturday before the holiday. Preliminary heats in the Soap Bay Derby, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, are to be held at 10 a.m. on May 20. A sports program for children will also be held the same day. Nanaimo Gun Club will hold its Empire Day shoot on May 20 and 21.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

On the afternoon of May 23 there will be junior-senior high school sports at Central Sports Grounds.

On May 24, finals in the Soap Box Derby will take place in the morning.

Shortly after the lunch hour the skirl of pipes, the beat of drums and the marching feet of the majorettes will be heard as a big parade proceeds along the main streets, ending at the Nanaimo Hospital, with the motorized section proceeding to the Indian Hospital.

Eaton's Remnants Pipe Band from Vancouver, Somass Legion Pipe Band from Alberni, and a band from the Western Show, will take part in the parade. Nanaimo Concert Band, decked out in new uniforms, and accompanied by majorettes, will appear at events of the day.

Page boys will be William Ferguson, Bevan, and Samuel Williams, Puntledge.

Card Cut Not Legal

DUNCAN, May 11.—Edward P. Robertson's luck has run out. The Mesachie Lake contractor claimed he settled a $539 debt with a Duncan contracting firm by winning a "double or nothing" card cut with the managing director, T. L. Garner.

Judge L. A. Hanna did not think so. He ruled that the cutting of the cards was "an act of gaming" which was outside the authority of the managing director and was not binding on the company.

Besides, his honor declared, a managing director has not the right to dissipate the assets of his company in such a way.
